

AUTHOR PROFILES

Guofu Liu is Professor of Law the Beijing Institute of Technology School of Law, China. He completed German Humboldt Fellow in Goethe University Frankfurt and obtained a Ph.D. from the University of Technology Sydney, Australia. Dr. Guofu's recent research focuses on migration law and policy. Guofu is the author of over 50 monographs, reports and papers including the Right to Leave and Return and Chinese Migration Law (Nijhoff) and Chinese Immigration Law (Ashgate), with special references to the China's legislations and policy-making of migration. He may be contacted at: australia2030@163.com

Björn Ahl is Professor and Chair of Chinese Legal Culture at the University of Cologne, Germany where he serves as the Director of the Institute of East Asian Studies. He is currently President of the European China Law Studies Association. Before joining the University of Cologne in 2012, he was Visiting Professor of Chinese Law, Comparative Public Law and International Law in the China-EU School of Law at the Chinese University of Political Science and Law in Beijing. Prior to that he held a position as Assistant Professor of Law in the City University of Hong Kong. Dr. Ahl has also worked as Associate Director and Lecturer in the Sino-German Institute of Legal Studies of Nanjing University and as a Researcher at the Max Planck Institute of Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg. He received a Ph.D. in law from the University of Heidelberg. Professor Ahl's research in Chinese law focuses on public law, in particular, on judicial reforms, rights litigation and the regulation of international migration to China. Chinese practice of public international law and domestic implementation of international treaties form another area of his research. Further, he investigates issues of comparative law, legal transfers and legal culture, which are related to Greater China and Chinese legal development. He may be contacted at: bjoern.ahl@me.com

Yayun Chen is Associate Professor at Henan University Law School, China. She was awarded her A.B., LL.M. and Ph.D. from Wuhan University. Sponsored by the China Scholarship Council, Dr. Chen worked as a visiting scholar at Gent University, Belgium from September 2016 to September 2017. She is interested in public international law, especially Genetically Modified Organism issue. Recently, she focuses on project “Dilemma and Choice of Chinese GM Food Safety Legislation from the Perspective of International Law” (13CFX109) funded by the Chinese National Philosophy and Social Science Youth Fund Project. Yayun is the author of five monographs, chapter of books and text books. She has also published more than 20 academic articles at prestigious journals. She may be contacted at: Chenyayun1984@163.com

Fengning Li is Associate Professor of International Economic Law at Wuhan University of Technology, China. He was awarded a Ph.D. (international law) and LL.M. (civil Law) from Wuhan University, China. He also got an LL.B. from Northwest University of Political Science and Law (Xi'an, China). He was a visiting scholar at George Mason University's Schar School of Policy and Government. Dr. Li has published several monographs, textbooks, and a dozen of articles primarily on international economic law and maritime law. His current research focuses on the WTO law and international investment law. He may be contacted at: lifn@whut.edu.cn

Xintong Li is currently a Ph.D. candidate in Private International Law at Shandong University (Jinan, China). Prior to doctoral study, she obtained LL.M. (Common Law) from Chinese University of Hong Kong and LL.B. from Zhongnan University of Economics and Law (Wuhan, China). Xintong's research interests include conflicts law, international dispute resolution and comparative private international law. She is particularly concerned about the judicial practice of the conflict law systems in courts of mainland China as well as other countries and districts. She will further carry out research comparative private international law in Tung Hai University (Taiwan) Law School as a visiting fellow between September 2018 and January 2019. She may be contacted at: lixintong15@163.com

Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann is emeritus professor for international and European law and former Head of the Law Department of the European University Institute (EUI), Florence. During 40 years, he has combined teaching of European and international law at numerous universities in Europe, Africa, Asia, North and South America with legal practice as legal advisor in the German Ministry of Economic Affairs, representative of Germany in UN, NATO and European institutions, legal counsellor in GATT, legal consultant for the EU, OECD, UNCTAD and the WTO, and secretary, member of chairman of GATT/WTO dispute settlement panels. Professor Petersmann studied law and economics at the Universities of Berlin, Heidelberg, Freiburg (Germany), Geneva and the London School of Economics. He received his Habilitation in 1989 for Swiss and German Public Law, European Law and International Law at the University of Fribourg (Switzerland). Petersmann has served as chairman of the International Trade Law Committee of the International Law Association (1999-2014) and has published 30 books and more than 300 contributions to books and journals on international and European law. He may be contacted at: Ulrich.petersmann@eui.eu

Yingying Wu is a lecturer at the School of International Law of China University of Political Science and Law. She holds a J.S.D. from University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (2017), and LL.M. from New York University. Yingying received her LL.B. from China University of Political Science and Law. She also visited Oxford University and Geneva University as an exchange student and carried out her internship at the World Trade Organization. Dr. Wu is interested in international law, trade law, investment law, comparative law, and competition law. She has published articles in such areas both in Chinese and English. She is also qualified to practice the law in China. She may be contacted at: wyyfada@163.com

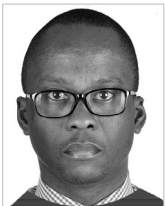

Stuart Malawer holds a Ph.D. from the Dept. of International Relations at the University of Pennsylvania. He has a J.D. from the Cornell Law School and a Diploma from The Hague Academy of International Law (Research Centre). He also studied at the Harvard Law School and St. Peter's College at

Oxford University. Professor Malawer was a member of the Virginia Governor's trade missions to China, India and Japan. Dr. Malawer was awarded the Hardy Cross Dillard Award by the Virginia State Bar, in recognition of serving as Chairman of its International Practice Section and Special Editor of the Virginia Lawyer. Most recently, he published articles on the US-China trade litigation and cybersecurity. Professor Malawer served as the Director and Founder of the Graduate International Transactions Program at George Mason University (a master's program in international affairs). He was subsequently named the Distinguished Service Professor of Law & International Trade, as well as the Director of the Oxford Trade Program. This program was held annually in partnership with St. Peter's College at Oxford and Geneva. The GMU Alumni Association named Professor Malawer the Distinguished Faculty Member of the Year. He may be contacted at: StuartMalawer@msn.com

Hamid Mukhtar is an Advocate of the Lahore High Court Bar Association Punjab, Pakistan and Research Fellow at China Rule of Law Research Institute at Zhejiang University's Guanghua Law School, Hangzhou. Hamid obtained a Ph.D. from Zhejiang University and an LL.M. from Wuhan University. He also got an LL.B. from the University of the Punjab, Pakistan in 2010. Dr. Hamid has acted as an independent legal practitioner in Civil, Criminal, Commercial, and Property matters. His research interests include International Law, International Trade and Investment Law, Chinese Law and Comparative law. In recent, his research focuses on the Impacts of China's Judicial Openness Reforms and the legal issues associated with the Chinese Belt and Road Initiative. He may be contacted at: hamid_mukhtar41@yahoo.com

Lester Paul was born in Guyana, South America and earned his first law degree there. After getting an LL.M. from Pace University, US, he joined Zhejiang University's Guanghua Law School as a Ph.D. student. His research focuses on the Belt and Road Initiative. He may be contacted at: lpaul24@yahoo.com