

AUTHOR PROFILES

Huan Qi is currently a Professor at China University of Political Science and Law (“CUPL”), Vice Dean of International Law School, Managing Director of China Institute of International Antitrust and Investment of CUPL, and Deputy Director of Maritime Law Center of CUPL. Dr. Qi’s principal areas of teaching and research include international economic law, international investment law, competition law, WTO law, and maritime law. Besides the Exemption System of Anti-monopoly in Public Services (monograph), Principles of International Investment Law (Chinese translation), she has also published many research papers in several Chinese and International leading journals and edited extensive textbooks including international economic law and international investment law and maritime law. Professor Qi has presided over a lot of research projects sponsored by the Ministry of Education, NDRC, MOFCOM, SASAC, and SAMR, covering subjects ranging from international investment, anti-monopoly, the WTO system to maritime law. She may be contacted at: qihuanhuan66@hotmail.com

Junqing Chao is a Ph.D. candidate at the Faculty of Law of the University of Hong Kong. She holds LL.M. from the University of Leeds and LL.B. from East China University of Political Science and Law. Her research interests include international investment law, WTO law, and international economic law. She worked as an intern at the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID) from 2017 to 2018. She may be contacted at: junqingchao@hotmail.com

Zewei Yang is a LuoJia Distinguished Professor and Scholar at Wuhan University School of Law, China. He obtained his Ph.D. in law from Wuhan University (1997). His major research areas cover the general theory of international law, the law of the sea, and international energy law. Dr. Yang has published extensively in these areas. His recent works and articles include Study on the History of International Law (2011); On Legal Safeguard of China's Energy Security (2009); The Sino-South Korean Fisheries Dispute: Its Present and Future (2012), etc. He was visiting Professor at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law (1999-2000) and the Centre for Energy, Petroleum and Mineral Law & Policy of Dundee University (2007). He may be contacted at: fxyyzw@whu.edu.cn

Yuan Chufeng is a senior lecturer in the School of Literature and Law at the East China University of Technology. He obtained his Joint Ph.D. in Law from Southeast University and University College Dublin (under the UCD China Scholarship Scheme). His research interests include Chinese constitutional law, international law, and Chinese foreign security policy. He can be reached at yuanchufeng@163.com

Min Zhao got her Ph.D. from Nan Kai University. She is now teaching international commercial law in Shanghai Li Xin University of Finance and Economics. As a visiting scholar of CCLS Queen Mary University of London and East China University of Political Science and Law (ECUPL), she focuses on the research in the fields of international law and commercial law. She is also a part-time lawyer concentrating on the international business of corporations and other commercial disputes. She is putting legal practice into her teaching and academic research, and at the same time, improving her professional skills on the other hand during her study about the theories. Min also devotes herself to studying foreign-related laws of China and comparing them with those from different countries and organizations. She may be contacted at: zhminsh@163.com

Mukunda Adhikari is currently a Ph.D. candidate in Law and Governance at Xi'an Jiaotong University, School of Law, Shaanxi, (China). Prior to his doctoral study, he obtained LL.B, LL.M., B.Ed. and M.Ed. from Tribhuwan University (Nepal). Adhikari is a renowned lawyer (Advocate) from Nepal and has worked as law lecturer at National Law College there. His research interests mainly include international investment law, maritime law, the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), Criminal Law, Constitutional Law and Rights of Landlocked countries. He has published several articles in prestigious journals of Nepal. He may be contacted at: adhikarimukunda8@gmail.com

ZhiGuo Ma is a second-grade Professor (doctoral tutor) at Xi'an Jiaotong University School of Law Shaanxi, (China). He is Vice President of the China Law Association on Science and Technology and Director of the Intellectual Property Research Institute of Xi'an Jiaotong University Shaanxi, (China). He is a practicing lawyer, arbitrator and judicial appraiser. He was awarded a Ph.D. from Xi'an Jiaotong University. His research interests focused on intellectual property law, science and technology law, civil and commercial law, market legal governance and Cultural heritage and traditional medicine law. He is engaged in several major projects of China Government and has published books and articles related to his subjects. He may be contacted at: zhiguoma@126.com

Kabita Dahal is currently an officer at the Supreme Court of Nepal. She studied at Tribhuwan University, Nepal Law Campus and earned her graduations in Law, in the year 2016. Dahal also majored in English at Tribhuwan University, Education Department. Her main interest lies in criminal law and international investment law. She may be contacted at: kabitadahal1@gmail.com

com

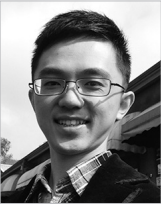

Stuart Malawer holds a Ph.D. from the Dept. of International Relations at the University of Pennsylvania. He has a J.D. from the Cornell Law School and a Diploma from The Hague Academy of International Law (Research Centre). He also studied at the Harvard Law School and St. Peter's College at Oxford University. Professor Malawer was a member of the Virginia Governor's trade missions to China, India, and Japan. Dr. Malawer was awarded the Hardy Cross Dillard Award by the Virginia State Bar, in recognition of serving as Chairman of its International Practice Section and Special Editor of the Virginia Lawyer. Most recently, he published articles on the US-China trade litigation, Trump's trade policies, and cybersecurity. Recent books have included GLOBAL TRADE AND INTERNATIONAL LAW (2012), U.S. NATIONAL SECURITY LAW (2009), and WTO LAW, LITIGATION AND POLICY (2007). Professor Malawer served as the Director and Founder of the Graduate International Transactions Program at George Mason University (a master's program in international affairs). He was subsequently named the Distinguished Service Professor of Law & International Trade, as well as the Director of the Oxford Trade Program. This program was held annually in partnership with St. Peter's College at Oxford and Geneva. The GMU Alumni Association named Professor Malawer the Distinguished Faculty Member of the Year. He was a gubernatorial appointee to the Virginia Economic Development Partnership and recently to the Virginia International Trade Committee. He may be contacted at: StuartMalawer@msn.com

Yingying Wu is a lecturer at the School of International Law of China University of Political Science and Law. She holds a J.S.D. from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (2017), and LL.M. from New York University. Yingying received her LL.B. from China University of Political Science and Law. She also visited Oxford University and Geneva University as an exchange student and carried out her internship at the World Trade Organization. Dr. Wu is interested in international law, trade law, investment law, comparative law, and competition law. She has published articles in such areas both in Chinese and English. She is also qualified to practice the law in China. She may be contacted at: wyyfada@163.com

Sung Hye Yun is a research professor at the Korean Chinese Relations Institute of Wonkwang University, Korea. She was awarded Ph.D. in law from China University of Political and Law (CUPL). Her recent research mainly focuses on trade like non-trade barriers and trade remedy, economic cooperation between Korea and China, Chinese environment policy in climate change, Access and Benefit-Sharing (ABS) on Genetic Resources of China, etc. In addition to writing research papers on these topics, she contributes a column to an Internet newspaper <Pressian> regularly. She may be contacted at: shyun12@hotmail.com.

Fan Yang is an assistant professor of international economic law at Xiamen University (China). Dr. Fan studied communication engineering at the Sun Yat-sen University and then law at the China University of Political Science and Law ("CUPL") for his Juris Master. He was also awarded LL.M. from Hamburg University (Germany), co-sponsor of CUPL for the China-EU School of Law. He is interested in the sovereignty theory, the new development of international economic law at the digital age, and cyberspace international law. He may be contacted at: onosefan@gmail.com