

AUTHOR PROFILES

Xiaoqing Feng is the Director of the Institute of Intellectual Property Law / Research Center for Intangible Assets Management as well as Professor of Law at the China University of Political Science and Law (CUPL), Beijing, P.R.C. Dr. Feng is the Vice Chairman of China Intellectual Property Law Society (CIPL) as well as a member of the Experts Commission of Works of Case Guidance, the Supreme People's Court of China. He worked as a visiting scholar for the Faculty of Law, University of British Columbia, Canada in 2001-02. Dr. Feng was awarded LL.B. from Renmin University of China and Ph.D. from Peking University. His research focuses on the theory and management of intellectual property law. Professor Feng has published many books and legal articles both in Asia, the US, and Europe. He may be contacted at: fengxiaoqingipr@sina.com

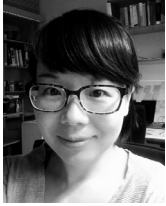

Zhixiao Wu is an Assistant Professor of Law at Shanxi Normal University and doing his Ph.D. research at China University of Political Science and Law, Beijing under the supervision of Professor Xiaoqing Feng, who is the Vice Chairman of China Intellectual Property Law Society (CIPL). Professor Wu is teaching intellectual property law and international economic law. He was awarded Juris Master by Sun Yat-sen University. His research focuses on intellectual property Law and international economic law. He may be contacted at: wzxbd@163.com

Hadas Peled is a Ph.D. candidate at Tsinghua University Law School and adjunct lecturer at Bar Ilan University in Israel. Hadas was awarded her LL.M. from Tsinghua University and LL.B. from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. She is the recipient of several academic excellence prizes. Hadas is an experienced Israeli law professional leading cross border investments. She also served as the co-editor in chief of the Tsinghua China Law Review (Vol. 8.1 & 8.2). She may be contacted at: hadas12@yahoo.com

Zhongmei Wang serves as Professor, Ph.D. Tutor and Executive Editor-in-Chief of World Economy Studies (Chinese) by the Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences. She was awarded Ph.D. in law from Xiamen University in 2004 and carried out a Postdoctoral fellowship in Economics from the Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences in 2006. Dr. Wang has published 5 monographs on the topic of trade and competition, by People's Press, Law Press and other outstanding publishers in China. She has also authored more than 60 articles and manuscripts on relevant issues in Chinese and English. Zhongmei has spoken at numerous panels and meetings on advances in Antimonopoly Law and international economic law. Her current interests revolve around international competition law, M&A, innovation and competition policy, WTO, TPP and global governance. She was selected as a Dawning Scholar in 2011 and Pujiang Scholar in 2016. She may be contacted at: zhongmei.wang@outlook.com.

Thomas Hoffmann started his legal studies at the University of Trier and passed his first state exam in law in 2005 at the University of Heidelberg, where he - following a research semester spent at the University of Latvia - also received his Ph.D. in 2006. After passing the second state exam at the Heidelberg district court in 2007 and his admission to the German bar, he practiced law in an international law firm in its branch offices of Kiev and Berlin. Then, he became a research fellow of the Institute of East European Law in Kiel, Germany in 2009. In 2011, Dr. Hoffmann was relocated to Estonia, where he first was appointed as a DAAD Lecturer in Law at the University of Tartu, before he became Associated Professor at Tallinn Law School at Tallinn University of Technology in 2016. A list of his publications is available at <http://bit.ly/1fz4RkT>. He may be contacted at: Thomas.Hoffmann@ttu.ee

Olivier Sempiga is originally from Rwanda. He holds a master's degree in moral and political philosophy from the University of London (Heythrop College). He is pursuing doctoral program in international politics at Dongguk University, Seoul, Korea. His research interests include global democracy and poverty eradication. Olivier recently published his first book, "Father To My Siblings" (Partiridge, 2006). The book was recommended and will soon be part of five major international book fairs in the US, Mexico, China, the UK, and Germany. He has also published a number of articles in different journals including "Ethical Standards and Alleviation of Poverty in Africa." Olivier was lecturer in Ethics and Literature at Arrupe College in Zimbabwe in 2012-13. He may be contacted at: sempigao@yahoo.fr

Ying Bi is an Assistant Professor of law at Zhejiang University in Hangzhou, China. She holds LL.B. and LL.M. from Tsinghua University in Beijing, China, and LL.D. from Kyushu University in Japan. She previously worked for the Japanese law firm Soga Uryu & Itoga in Tokyo and researched at Yaseda University, Japan as a visiting scholar. Her major research interest covers international trade law, competition law, and regional trade agreements. She has published in these areas such as Dumping: Antidumping Law or Competition Law (Intellectual Property Publishing House 2011), and a series of papers in the well-known academic law reviews including Journal of World Investment & Trade and Manchester Journal of International Economic Law. She may be contacted at: biying@zju.edu.cn

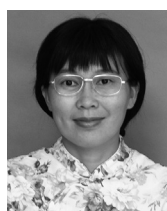

Xin Chen is Associate Professor of International Law at Xiamen University School of Law, China. She currently teaches international economic law, international trade law and financial law. Her research interests focus on the world trade relations, the WTO dispute settlement system, and international financial law. From August, 2011 to June, 2012, Dr. Chen attended the Freeman Program as visiting scholar at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Some of her publications include A Study on the International Regulation of Financial Derivatives Trading (Peking University Press, 2006); A Research on the Treaty Interpretation in WTO Dispute Settlement-Judicial Restraint vs. Judicial Activism (Peking University Press, 2010); An Analysis of the Financial Prudential Exception In The Investment Treaties (Modern Law Science, 2013), etc. She may be contacted at: echoflying@xmu.edu.cn

Deepali Fernandes is an International Trade Consultant based in Switzerland. She was awarded B.A. (Economics and Politics) and LL.B. in Mumbai(India), and LL.M. in London (SOAS). She is admitted as an Advocate in India and a Solicitor to the Law Society of England and Wales. Deepali worked with the UNCTAD for 8 years in the areas of migration, trade in services, finance and regional agreements. Prior to joining the UNCTAD, Deepali practiced commercial law in India and the UK. Deepali has been a visiting fellow at the University of Cambridge and the University of International Business and Economics in Beijing. She has been a guest lecturer at IMD Business School, Lausanne and Government Law College, Mumbai. Deepali has published articles in the areas of regional trade agreements, trade in services, finance, migration and trade policy reviews (Asia and Africa) in several UN publications and international journals. Most recent publications are India and the Mega regionals (Forbes India), SADC Report on Construction, Engineering and Architecture, and Trade and Regulatory Issues of Landlocked Developing Countries: Case of India-Nepal and China- Mongolia (forthcoming). She may be contacted at: deepalifernandes@gmail.com

Yongmin Bian is a Professor of the Law School, University of International Business and Economics (“UIBE”). She obtained B.A. and M.A. from China University of Political Science and Law in Beijing and Ph.D. in law from UIBE. Dr. Bian was awarded a Postgraduate Diploma of International Law and Organizations for Development from Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands. She was a visiting fellow at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law, Cambridge. Professor Bian is a member of the Guangzhou Arbitration Commission, Panelist of the Domain Name Dispute Resolution Center of the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission (Beijing) and Research Fellow of the Center for International

Sustainable Development Law (Canada). She won the Anzjie International Trade Research Prize (2006). Her research interests include public international law, international environmental law, international trade law, and food safety law. She may be contacted at: bianyongmin@uibe.edu.cn

Yong Shik Lee is Director of the Law and Development Institute and Distinguished Scholar in Residence and Adjunct Professor at Emory University. He graduated in economics with academic distinction from the University of California at Berkeley and studied law at the University of Cambridge. Author of Reclaiming Development in the World Trading System (Cambridge University Press, 2009), Safeguard Measures in World Trade: The Legal Analysis (Edward Elgar, 2014), and Law and Development Perspective on International Trade Law (Cambridge University Press, 2011), Professor Lee has over sixty scholarly publications in the areas of international trade law and economic development, comparative law, and international commercial arbitration. In recent, he has focused on the impact that domestic and international legal systems, including the legal framework for international trade, has on economic development. He has also developed the concept of microtrade, a new system of international trade designed to alleviate populations of the least-developed countries of extreme poverty. He has recently co-authored and edited a treatise on microtrade, such as Microtrade: A New System of International Trading System with Volunteerism towards Poverty Elimination (Routledge, 2013). He is currently an associate editor of the Journal of World Trade and the founding editor-in-chief of the Law and Development Review. He may be contacted at: yslee@lawanddevelopment.net

Xiaojie (Sherry) Lu is an associate professor in international economic law at Tsinghua University Law School, Beijing, China. She received her B.E. degree and LL.M. from Tsinghua University, and LL.D. from Kyushu University, Japan. Dr. Lu was a visiting scholar in University of Michigan Law School in 2004-05, Georgetown University Law School in 2014-15. With the background of international trade law, she worked as a legal counsel for the Department of Treaty and Law in the Ministry of Commerce of

P.R. China in 2006-07, providing legal assistance to the WTO dispute settlement cases to which China acted as a party. She also taught as a Global Law School Visiting Professor in Leuven Centre for Global Governance Studies in March 2011. Professor Lu's scholarship has focused on various aspects of international trade law. She may be contacted at: lawlxj@mail.tsinghua.edu.cn