

AUTHOR PROFILES

Shufeng Cong is a graduate student in economics at the School of Business and Economics, Universiti Putra Malaysia. Shufeng's research areas cover international economics, international trade, and tourism economics. His academic publications focus on the development of digital trade in China, urban tourism in China, and the internationalization of the RMB, among others. He participated in the 22nd international conference on next generation wired-wireless networks and systems in Tashkent, Uzbekistan and presented an op-ed in 2022. He may be contacted at: congshufeng@foxmail.com.

Lee Chin is an associate professor in international economics at the School of Business and Economics, Universiti Putra Malaysia. Her research fields are financial economics, housing economics and energy economics. Professor Lee has taught more than 20 different courses at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels, supervising more than 100 students. To date, she has published 103 journal articles, 4 books and 16 chapters in books. She is also the principal investigator of some projects and associate editors of several academic journals. She may be contacted at: leechin@upm.edu.my.

Allayarov Piratdin is an associate professor of mathematical methods in Economics Department at Tashkent State University of Economics, Uzbekistan. He got a Bachelor's degree in Finance from Karakalpak State University and a Master's degree in Accounting from the Karakalpak State University. He obtained Ph.D. in Economics at Hunan University in China. Dr. Piratdin participated as a local consultant in the projects of international organizations such as the World Bank, UN Development Program, GIZ, UNICEF, Asian Development Bank. His primary research fields are international trade and economics. He published more than 20 papers in local and international journals.

Charis Vlados is an experienced academic with more than 30 years of teaching experience at various educational institutions. He is currently a tenured assistant professor in the Department of Economics at Democritus University of Thrace. He obtained a Ph.D. with distinction from the University of Paris X-Nanterre, where he developed the Stra.Tech.Man triangle to illustrate the interplay between strategy, technology, and management in the context of globalization. Charis' teaching experience is diverse, encompassing such topics as Development Dynamics and Globalization, Innovation Economics and Entrepreneurship, and Corporate Strategic Analysis and Business Planning. He has authored over 100 works, including books, monographs, and scientific articles in peer-reviewed journals. He may be contacted at: cvlados@econ.duth.gr.

Surendar Singh is an associate professor of FORE School of Management, New Delhi, where he teaches international business and export-import management. He received Ph.D. in Management from Kumaun University, Uttarakhand, India. His research interest covers international trade policy, global value chains, industrial policy, free trade agreements, WTO and Digital trade. Dr. Singh has also worked as Consultant for the World Bank Group, Washington D.C and the Asian Development Bank, Manilla and United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (UNESCAP), Bangkok, Thailand. He is also a visiting scholar to the Korean Institute of International Economic Policy. He can be contacted at drsuredarsingh@gmail.com.

Sirui Wu is an assistant researcher of China (Hubei) Pilot Free Trade Zone Institute at School of Business and Administration, Zhongnan University of Economics and Law (ZUEL), China. He has an academic background in international economics and trade. Sirui is particularly interested in the issues of Free Trade Zone (FTZ) and the factor allocation. He has participated in different scientific projects focusing on the market-based allocation of the factors of production and the FTZ related issues. He may be contacted at: wusirui@stu.zuel.edu.cn.

Huaiyu Gu serves as an assistant researcher of China (Hubei) Pilot Free Trade Zone Institute, School of Business and Administration, Zhongnan University of Economics and Law (ZUEL), China. Huaiyu has an education background of commerce and international trade. Her research focus is on international trade and investment with special references to enterprise behavior and Free Trade Zone development. She was a team member of several research and projects. She may be contacted at: guhuaiyu@stu.zuel.edu.cn.

Kai Liu is an associate professor of Zhongnan University of Economics and Law; Masters' Program Supervisor; Secretary-General of China (Hubei) Pilot Free Trade Zone Institute; Special Researcher of City and Competitiveness Research Center; and Chief Expert of Thematic Cases of the Ministry of Education. His research interests include theory and strategy of cross-border investment, regional economic integration, and free trade zones. He may be contacted at: liukai@zuel.edu.cn.

Francisco A. Magno is a full professor of Political Science and Development Studies at De La Salle University where he served as Director of the La Salle Institute of Governance and the Social Development Research Center. He finished B.A. and M.A. from the University of the Philippines-Diliman and Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Hawaii at Manoa. Dr. Magno conducts research on governance, public policy, and sustainable development. He has been a visiting professor at Waseda University and Hiroshima University and a visiting scholar at Osaka University and Florida State University. He may be contacted at: francisco.magno@dlsu.edu.ph.

Martin Josef Vivo is the Project Coordinator for Growth at BuildZoom, a US-based company that helps homeowners build and remodel their homes. He received B.A. (Honors) and M.A. (Honors) in Political Science from the University of the Philippines -Diliman. Aside from the current work in his company coordinating content creation processes, Mr. Vivo maintains academic research interests in politics and governance, constitutional politics, contentious politics, electoral politics, and international relations and governance of the Philippines through freelance research assistance. He may be contacted at: mjevivo1993@gmail.com.

Siti Darwinda Mohamed Pero is a senior lecturer at School of International Studies of Universiti Utara Malaysia (UUM), Malaysia. She received Ph.D. from the University of Melbourne, Australia. She was also awarded B.A. (Hons: International Affairs Management) and MSc. (Strategic Studies) from Universiti Utara Malaysia. She is an associate research fellow at the Asian Institute of International Affairs and Diplomacy (AIIAD). Her current research focuses on multilateral diplomacy; comparative regional integration; and non-traditional security especially focusing on cybersecurity and human security issues. Dr. Darwinda is a principal investigator and a participant of research projects funded by the university, the Ministry of Higher Education of Malaysia and other government agencies.

Muhammad Ali Ridha Norman is a senior lecturer of international relations at the School of International Studies (SoIS), Universiti Utara Malaysia (UUM). He is also a research fellow at the Asian Institute of International Affairs and Diplomacy (AIIAD). Dr. Ali completed Master's Degree at Peking University (PKU) and received Ph.D. from China Foreign Affairs University (CFAU). His primary research interests revolve around foreign policy, Southeast Asia-China relations, and great power rivalry. He has published a number of articles in journals and proceedings. He may be contacted at: aliridha@uum.edu.my.

Stuart Malawer holds a Ph.D. from the Dept. of International Relations at the University of Pennsylvania. He has a J.D. from the Cornell Law School and a Diploma from The Hague Academy of International Law (Research Centre). He also studied at the Harvard Law School and St. Peter's College at Oxford University. Professor Malawer was a member of the Virginia Governor's trade missions to China, India, and Japan. Dr. Malawer was awarded the Hardy Cross Dillard Award by the Virginia State Bar, in recognition of serving as Chairman of its International Practice Section and Special Editor of the Virginia Lawyer. Most recently, he published articles on the US-China trade litigation, Trump's trade policies, and cybersecurity. Recent books have included Trump and Trade - Policy and Law (2021), Global Trade and International Law (2012), US National Security Law (2009), and WTO Law, Litigation and Policy (2007). Professor Malawer served as the Director and Founder of the Graduate International Transactions Program at George Mason University (a masters' program in international affairs). He was subsequently named the Distinguished Service Professor of Law & International Trade, as well as the Director of the Oxford Trade Program. This program was held annually in partnership with St. Peter's College at Oxford and Geneva. The GMU Alumni Association named Professor Malawer the Distinguished Faculty Member of the Year. He was a gubernatorial appointee to the Virginia Economic Development Partnership and recently to the Virginia International Trade Committee. He may be contacted at: StuartMalawer@msn.com.

Chao Wang (Harry) is an associate professor and associate director of Centre for Constitutional and Basic Law Studies at the University of Macau, where he is also a member of the Faculty Executive Committee directing the faculty's international programs. He received Ph.D. in Law, LL.M. and M.A. (Asia Pacific Policy Studies) from the University of British Columbia (UBC), where he also taught courses as a sessional lecturer at UBC's Allard School of Law. Dr. Wang is an editor of the Chinese Journal of International Law, Asia-Pacific Law Review, Journal of Intellectual Property Law & Practice, and Chinese Journal of Comparative Law. Professor Wang serves on the panel of several international arbitral bodies in China, including the Shanghai International Arbitration Center, and Shenzhen Court of International Arbitration. He may be contacted at: chaowang@um.edu.mo.

Zhuoxin Lin is a Ph.D. student in law at the University of Macau. Her current research areas cover on dispute resolution, corporate compliance, and international trade. Ms. Lin obtained LL.M. at the Chinese University of Hong Kong and LL.B. at the Southwest University of Political Science and Law. Prior to pursuing her doctoral program at the University of Macau, Zhuoxin practiced law at a law firm in mainland China mainly focusing on foreign related litigations and international commercial arbitrations. She may be contacted at yc27207@um.edu.mo.

Siyuan Jin is a Ph.D. candidate at Shanghai Jiaotong University Law School, China. He was awarded LL.B. from East China University of Political Science and Law, and LL.M. from Shandong University, China. He won a national scholarship and interned at the Supreme People's Court of China in 2021. Siyuan has published more than seven research articles in the field of financial law and international economic law. These publications have been read and cited considerably. Siyuan also serves as a teaching assistant for two legal English courses at Shanghai Jiaotong University Law School. He may be contacted at: jinsiyuanay@foxmail.com.

Wei Shen is KoGuan Distinguished Professor of Law at Shanghai Jiaotong University Law School. Professor Shen got Ph.D. (LSE), LL.M. (Cantab), LL.M. (Michigan), and LL.M. & LL.B. (ECUPL). He joined the New York Bar and was practicing law for a decade, mostly in Hong Kong on foreign direct investment, private equity and M&A. His main research interests include financial regulation, corporate governance, international investment law and commercial arbitration. He has published more than 200 articles in Chinese and English journals. Professor Shen has authored many books including Chinese Business Law-Narrative and Commentary (Wolters Kluwer 2016) and edited book, Private Law in China and Taiwan-A Law and Economics Approach (2016). His article was cited by the Supreme Court of Singapore. He is an arbitrator with London Court of International Arbitration, Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre, Singapore International Arbitration Centre, Korean Commercial Arbitration Board

(International), Shanghai International Arbitration Centre, Shanghai Arbitration Commission, China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission, Shenzhen International Court of Arbitration, among others. He may be contacted at: shenwei@sjtu.edu.cn.